|
Right Triangle	A triangle whose one angles is a right angle (that is 90°) is called a right angled triangle or right angle.
Equilateral Triangle	A triangle in which have all its three sides equal in length is called an equilateral triangle.
Acute Triangle	A triangle which has all the three angles acute that is, less than 90°, is called an acute angled triangle or acute triangle.
Scalene Triangle	A triangle in which all the three sides are unequal in length is called a scalene triangle.
Obtuse Triangle	A triangle whose one angle is obtuse or more than 90° but less than 180° is called an obtuse angled triangle or obtuse triangle.
Isosceles Triangle	A triangle in which two of its sides are equal is called isosceles triangle.